

2023 Development Cooperation Forum
14-15 March 2023, ECOSOC Chamber, UNHQ

Information Note

The Development Cooperation Forum (DCF) has a critical role to play in adapting international development cooperation to the new or changing global environment and evolving country needs and priorities. Originating from the 2005 World Summit and reinforced by the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and Addis Ababa Action Agenda, the DCF has a distinctive mandate. It serves to enhance coherence, effectiveness, and coordination across the wide range of diverse actors and activities in development cooperation, in all its forms – financing, capacity support, collective action for policy change, and multi-stakeholder partnerships.

The 2023 DCF will emphasize the human dimension of development cooperation, with a focus on the experiences of people that development cooperation policies and practices are meant to serve. It will provide a critical platform to shape high-impact development cooperation that responds to multiple crises while maintaining a laser focus on realizing the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in their totality. As such, it will put in place a firm foundation for collective policy actions in 2023 at the Forum on Financing for Development Follow-up (FfDForum) and High-level Political Forum on Sustainable Development (HLPF) under the auspices of ECOSOC, and the SDG Summit and the High-level Dialogue on Financing for Development under the auspices of the General Assembly (High-level dialogue on financing).

Interpretation: Interpretation in all 6 official languages of the United Nations will be available for all meetings of the Forum.

Documentation: As the principal analytical input into the 2023 DCF, the report of the Secretary-General on trends and progress in international development cooperation (E/2023/48) will support the discussions with research and analysis of the latest trends, progress and challenges; fresh data from the 2022 DCF survey exercise and study; and insights from DCF policy dialogue and peer learning events. All background documentation can be found on the DCF website.

Registration/Access: There is no separate registration process for the DCF.
